Studying in Germany – an excellent choice!

Germany is a popular study destination for students from all over the world and German universities have an excellent reputation worldwide in teaching and research. In Germany, you will acquire a university degree that is accepted on an international basis and opens up excellent opportunities on the job market worldwide.

Application process for your studies

You can apply for a course of studies directly if your school-leaving certificate is recognized in Germany or if you have already studied for two or more semesters in your home country. If this is not the case, you must take an assessment test. There are courses you can take to prepare for this.

Visa certificate

From a pre-studies visa, to a study visa, to a language-learning visa, to a job-seeker visa and right on up to the Schengen visa, the length of stay and the requirements all vary for the different visas. For more detailed information on the German Embassy responsible for you, go to the website of the Federal Foreign Office.
